National Occupation Classification (NOC) Code	Lab Technician 3212
On Labour Market Indicators list for Second Career?	No
Job Postings/Grad Report	Fleming College grad report 2013/2014 indicates that 78.9 of grads are working in their field 6 months after graduation. From the National Job Bank for the date of October 28/15 – 441 positions were posted for laboratory technicians/technologists/assistants in forensic, medical, scientific, and chemical in the Province of Ontario. 144 of those jobs were listed in the last 48 hours. The majority of these positions were full time
Additional Labour Market Information (LMI)	Workers in regulated¹ occupations require a licence to work legally. Workers in non-regulated² occupations do not require a licence, but employers may have other certification requirements. ★ ★ ☆ (2 of 3 stars)

² A profession or trade that does not require a licence to practice (e.g. bookkeeper). About 80 per cent of Canadian workers are employed in non-regulated occupations. The non-regulated job market is an excellent place to begin your career in Canada. If you are a foreign trained professional, you can work in a non-regulated job while you become licensed in a regulated profession, or to gain Canadian work experience.

	For the 2014-2016 period, the employment outlook is expected to be fair for Medical Laboratory Technicians (NOC 3212) in Ontario. This occupation had a provincial labour force of about 8,670 at the time of the 2011 National Household Survey. An aging population and increasingly health-conscious society are fueling demand for medical testing and analysis. (Release date: 2015-05-29)
